IN SOME QUARTERS there is a feeling the articles were intended primarily for home consumption. The conferences scheduled for the sixteenth session today. The day was Generalissimo Stalin's 66th birthday but there was no mention of this fact in the Soviet press.

(Radio Moscow, heard in London, attacked an alleged increase in Nazi activity in some Latin American countries where it said "Pro-Fascist reactionaries feel quite at ease and are carrying out an active campaign against Democracy and international peace.")

STALIN'S BIRTHDAY received little public attention. He worked until a late hour last night, as usual, and probably will do the same tonight.

Molotov, Secretary of State, James F. Byrnes and Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin continued their particularly frank talks on problems facing the three great powers, particularly in the Middle East and Far East.

The Far Eastern problem stood foremost on the minds of both American and British delegations.

The Russians are seeking a control council for Japan and they have refused to join the present International Advisory Council on problems in Japan. They are seeking to join to Gen. Douglas MacArthur's dominant role.

IN TOKYO, MacArthur denied an American broadcaster's report that he had threatened to resign in disagreement over Russian participation in the occupation.

There was much discussion among Anglo-American delegations of the Soviet campaign, prominently featured yesterday, to obtain for Russia 10,000 square miles of territory flanking the Russian Baku oil center.

(A Turkish official spokesman in London said Turkey would not cede any of her territory and was unprepared to negotiate with any other power concerning territorial problems.)

Aussies to Retire Older Military Men

CANBERRA, Dec. 21.—(Reuters)—Prime Minister Chifley announced today that older personnel in some armed services would be retired to make way for younger men who had done well in the war, as part of Australia's post-war defence policy.

Experience in the development of armored and amphibious forces, acquisition of air power, naval and land forces and its own independent role, and invention of new weapons such as firing bombs and the rocket demonstrated that the art of war had undergone great changes, Mr. Chifley said.

CLOSER INTEGRATION of the three services and of the command and employment also involved new concepts. Therefore it was important in post-war development that young men who had distinguished themselves in the new methods should have an effective voice. The older men would be given treatment in retirement, Chifley declared.

Publishers Say Printers' Union Won't Arbitrate

WINNIPEG, Dec. 21.—(CP)—In a statement yesterday published by the Winnipeg Free Press and the Winnipeg Tribune, the International Typographical Union (ITU) said it would not arbitrate a new contract under imperial arbitration.

PRINTERS from the staffs of the two newspapers have been on a work stoppage since Nov. 8, the dispute involving arbitration procedure and a new working agreement. The printers value the right to local union laws to arbitration.

The publishers yesterday offered to meet any or all of the printers who may make application for work.

"FRESH STEPS must be taken to provide time for the daily newspaper in Winnipeg," said the statement.

"The publishers feel that their duty to the community demands that from this time on they must move forward very effectively and as speedily as possible conditions of normal publication."

THE STATEMENT was published on a front page of Thursday's edition, and in a separate full-page summary the publishers reviewed the dispute.

In dealing with collective bargaining, the summary said: "This is a new method of doing business, only now receiving general recognition in theory and still requiring in practice to be worked out by the parties themselves. The publishers, as employers, have no objection to this method, but they are not prepared to accept it as a condition of normal publication."

Since Nov. 10, the two newspapers have been in operation in Canada, but they have not been able to publish with the names of both publishers. The ITU is being produced with electronic typewriter print and ordinary type.

"FOR SOME WEEKS now a skeleton staff has been employed in the newspaper's composing rooms," the statement said. It has consisted of a few printers and a larger number of the printers who have been given local and efficient service to the newspapers for years, and their absence from work these past six weeks has been a serious handicap.

"IF THESE MEN should now be sent to resume work they will be sent to work under conditions of imperial arbitration, which is a condition of normal publication, but in any case, the ITU is not prepared to accept it as a condition of normal publication."

THE ITU HEADQUARTERS PARLEY'S REFUSED

WINNIPEG, Dec. 21.—(CP)—V. B. Anderson, president of Local 19, International Typographical Union (ITU), whose newspaper members have been on a work stoppage six weeks, last night said the union has not closed the door on any further discussions or negotiations with the publishers of the Winnipeg Free Press and the Winnipeg Tribune.

"WE HAVE BEEN ready and prepared to meet the publishers at any time, but as the publishers have refused to accept our terms, we are forced to close the door on any further discussions or negotiations with the publishers."

THE UNION PRESIDENT yesterday sent a letter to the publishers, Victor Stilton of the Free Press, and W. J. McGowan of the Tribune, reiterating that the ITU is not prepared to accept imperial arbitration.

IN A LATER statement yesterday, the publishers said the union had failed to accept an offer to negotiate a new contract under imperial arbitration.

The union has offered to meet any or all of the printers who may make application for work and said every effort would be made to restore "as speedily as possible conditions of normal publication."

A skeleton staff has been employed in the newspaper's composing rooms. It is now proposed to begin steady enlargement of the staff until it reaches the required size.

Stalin Observes 66th Birthday Today

A ball of enemy gunfire. Gen. Patton, ignoring the enemy bullets, leaped into the stream ahead of his men and swam across.

Once during the North African campaign he ordered his men to "get to the top of the hill so you can get shot at a bit." This was a rather unusual order for a leader of men.

A SPARKLING SUCCESS in war. Gen. Patton was constantly getting in difficulties because of his thoroughness and his quick temper.

Then Wednesday night in his weakened condition he contracted pneumonia.

HE WAS LILY-EQUIPPED to fight off this latest danger. His lungs and back muscles still were partially paralyzed from the spinal injury he had suffered in the Third Army.

He could not easily clear his lungs which filled rapidly.

He brought to his heart finally weakened early today and by 5:30 p.m. the fight had ended. The man whom the Germans had called "the great Patton" never had been able to stop his fighting.

Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, commanding general of the American Third Army, announced the death, he said:

"It is my painful duty to announce the death of a great fighting man and a great man. General Patton was a man of great spirit and great courage. He was a man who was always ready to lead his men into battle."

He went down fighting. Patton could have died in no other way than the way he died. He was a man who was always ready to lead his men into battle.

There was a sudden epiphany here who loved him and for all the world he was a man who was always ready to lead his men into battle.

McCoy Health Service

Before attempting treatment to correct chronic digestive distress it is advisable that a thorough examination be taken including a fluoroscopic study of the stomach and any X-ray pictures needed. Very often the fluoroscope will demonstrate that all stomachs are playing a contributing role in producing the continued inability to digest food in comfort.

Sometimes the X-ray pictures will disclose that the patient's real trouble is gastric ulcer, in which case a much stricter dieting regimen is required, the thorough examination may also disclose the fact that the stomach is normal and the indigestion is being produced by a lack of bile secretion.

When the examination discloses that the symptoms are actually due to gastritis, the patient is then ready to try the diet treatment for the relief of his discomfort. Consider a sensible diet of first importance in all cases of this nature. Correct diet comes first—far ahead of all other measures. Gastritis is only produced through the period of many years, and before permanent relief is experienced, these wrong habits of eating must be changed and good habits of eating established.

"Usually the patient starts to improve as soon as he is placed on a sensible diet and when he is willing to follow instructions carefully, all will be done to improve until finally he is able to get to the point where he is able to forget that he ever had stomach trouble."

To find the most rapid improvement is secured if the patient starts by using a five day fast. The fasting method of treatment is of the greatest value in these cases where the stomach might be said to be tired and over-worked and consequently in need of a physiological rest. During the fast either on plain water or on fruit juice the normal functioning of the stomach will largely return and when the patient begins eating, he will find the digestive tract greatly strengthened. During the fast, the stomach loses the sense of irritation or discomfort and greatly returns to a feeling of being comfortable. During any type of fasting regimen, the daily enema should be taken.

After the fast, the patient is ready to start on a well-planned diet. Wholesome foods, used in moderation and properly combined with each other, will be found the best "medicine" the patient may possibly use.

If you have been troubled by continued indigestion, you should be willing to learn enough about foods to eat sensibly. It is particularly important that you study food combinations, so you will know which foods combine harmoniously with each other. Learn what you need to know about food and then stick to a common-sense diet until you have improved enough so that you are unaware you have a stomach. Digestion should proceed so smoothly that you need not give it a thought and digestive power of this type should be your goal.

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large stamped, self-addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address: McCoy Health Service, The McCoy Building, 1151 West 6th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

AFTER STALIN, WHAT?

Stalin Will Work for Peace But Russia's Own Security Comes First, Davies Asserts

This is the last of three dispatches by experts on Russian affairs timed in connection with the 66th birthday of Generalissimo Josef Stalin, Dec. 21. Mr. Davies, author of "Mission to Moscow," is former U.S. ambassador to Russia—EDITOR.

By JOSEPH E. DAVIES
Former Ambassador to the USSR
WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—It was in 1936—nine years before that President Roosevelt turned Russia to Russia to report on Russian strength and on which side Russia would fight if Hitler made war.

I FIRST "CAME TO KNOW" Stalin through my reading in preparation for the trip to Moscow. Later this background was greatly enhanced by my personal contact with the man.

As I know Stalin, he is first a Russian and second an ardent advocate for world security under peace based on law and order.

Consistent with obtaining the security of his own country, he would, in my opinion, go as far to protect and maintain peace for the world as would any of the great leaders of the earth.

IF HE CAN PARTICIPATE in such an enterprise with the considerable co-operation of the Allies who fought at his side during the war, he will have rendered a great service to the world in peace as he did in war.

Stalin's story is one of idealistic youth, courage, adventure, and great achievement. He was apparently the devoted son of humble parents—a fine mother and a peasant shoemaker father in southern Russia.

As a young man Stalin had been expelled from a religious seminary for his radical views. He became a bitter opponent of Czarism—a revolutionary who "expatriated" government funds by robbing banks to aid the revolution. He was exiled to Siberia five times and five times he escaped.

While in Russia I traveled extensively. I saw their industry, their army, their great wealth. I studied their budget, their plans, their achievements, and their leaders. And I came to the conclusion that but for the great executive ability and wisdom of one powerful individual, the greatest economic revolution in history could not have succeeded.

That individual was the Secretary of the Communist Party—Stalin.

AS SUCH HE WAS NOT the sinister head of the state and, therefore, he had not been accessible to the diplomat. It was not until 1938 when I was saying goodbye to Premier Molotov that I first personally met Marshal Stalin at the Kremlin. I was particularly struck by the informal friendliness and kindness of his greeting, the obvious human qualities which would draw me to him. But he also gave me the impression of great capacity and power.

As personal representative of President Roosevelt, Joseph E. Davies, left, received a warm greeting in 1943 from Premier Josef Stalin and Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov. He previously had served as U.S. Ambassador to Russia.

AGAIN IN 1943, as Special Envoy for President Roosevelt, I met the Marshal in Moscow. I had long conferences in the Kremlin with him and Premier Molotov, in the course of which we discussed for hours the international situation and its problems.

He looked older and worn—but fit. There was more weariness in his demeanor. He gave me the impression of being a man with his guard up.

Only a few months before Premier Molotov had visited Moscow to explain the change in plans, the delay in delivery of supplies, and the inability to open a second front in France. That was a bitter disappointment to the Soviet leadership and the cause of the load which the Red Army was carrying.

I WAS IMPRESSED by the number of times he used the word "why?" He was frank to the point of bluntness. The facts of any situation discussed were at the tip of his tongue.

He stated his own position simply, but fluently. He knew exactly what he would do. He emphasized that relations required reciprocity to be permanent. He wanted every engagement into which he entered clearly defined. He impressed me then as he had apparently impressed Wendell Wilkie, Donald Nelson, Eric Johnston and many of our top military leaders as a man who could be relied upon to live up to his word.

MY IMPRESSIONS generally were summed up by the brilliant comment of Prime Minister Churchill in the House of Commons when he said:

"It is fortunate for Russia to have great, rugged war chiefs at her head. . . . Stalin is a massive and strong personality, of inexhaustible courage and will power. . . . a man with a saving sense of humor. . . ."

Of deep, cool wisdom and complete absence of illusion of any kind, I came away from Moscow in 1943 with the conviction that he was hard-boiled, he was also a practical-minded idealist.

THERE WAS NO DOUBT in my mind but that he wanted peace for the world because, realistically, Russia needed it. But beyond any question, in my opinion, his primary concern was for the security of his people from outside physical attack.

He was suspicious, too—very much from Missouri, as we say. Before he would completely trust the governments of western Europe, he would have to be shown.

AS TO THE UNITED STATES, he apparently had full confidence in our good will and intentions, but he had doubts as to the disposition of our people to appreciate the facts of life in connection with the necessity for building confidence through a common-sense approach to reality.

The next time I met Generalissimo Stalin was at the Potsdam Conference this summer. He looked older, less wire-edged. At the formal dinner—which, by the way, I found most useful in promoting better understanding—he was again the life of the party, lively and always with a twinkle in his eye.

AT THE CONFERENCE table, I had an opportunity to observe him close-up for many hours and over many days. Here was the first critical test of whether Allied unity could be preserved after the fighting to win the peace.

It was apparent that, consistent with safeguarding what he considered vital matters to his own country, he was bending every effort through accommodation and concession, to find an accord which would achieve unity for peace. Repeatedly, he acceded to the suggestions of President Truman.

In a letter back home, I find wrote the following, which probably best expresses my picture of Stalin as I saw him there:

"STALIN IS EXTRAORDINARY in these discussions across the table. Every now and then, in his interchanges with Churchill, he starts and commands attention by his display of sheer mental power and his capacity for extemporaneous argument."

"I watched him a great deal as he sat in his chair at the table, listening—sometimes smilingly, sometimes otherwise. He rarely interjected. He always waited until the speaker had concluded and then asked President Truman, the chairman, for permission to reply."

"When he spoke, it was tersely, but with a naked idea without embroidery. He clipped them off with the precision of a machine gun, and logically."

"HE HAS A REPENTANT mind. He takes up the opposing argument point by point, and scrutinizes each—from his point of view—with counter-facts and arguments."

"Frequently he would digress from the immediate point to discuss his relation to the broader international picture. When he scored a 'soft point' of argument, it would be with a twinkle in his eye."

"I am impressed with the fact that all the time he is thinking realistically in terms of the vital securities of his country. He is well named 'Stalin'—which means 'steel'. There is a grim hardness in his face when he is aroused and feels that he is being pressed too far. There is a coldness when he says, 'no'."

IN CONCLUSION I WOULD say that he is one of the great men of this or any other time.

As an international statesman, in 1938 he bought time to prepare for Hitler's inevitable attack. He mobilized a great army from scratch. He mobilized his people to support that huge military effort.

IN 1941 AND 1942 he traded space for time and retreated into his own land in the face of an onslaught of three million Germans on a 1,800 mile front and hundreds of miles in depth. Under his leadership, his people scorched their way back, and the Red Army then drove the enemy out of their country.

Poisonous Cherry
Blinds East Troops

LIVERPOOL, England, Dec. 21.—(Reuters)—Charles D. Torrell, scientific advisor to the Far East forces, said yesterday that 27 British servicemen have returned from New Guinea, totally blind—but not from Japanese action. They are, he said, the victims of eating "finger cherry," a fruit that looks and tastes like an English cherry. Speaking before a Liverpool service club, Mr. Torrell said: "You can eat one or two and nothing happens. But if you eat nine or ten, within a few hours you are totally blind."

Dairy Farmers Plan East Meet

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Dec. 21.—(CP)—The dairy farmers of Canada will hold their annual convention at Niagara Falls, Ont., Jan. 17-19, inclusive. It was announced last night by Secretary Eric Kitchen of Woodstock. Speakers will include Col. J. H. Tremblay, Ottawa, federal department of trade and commerce; W. G. Cameron, Ottawa, dairy products marketing service division of the Dominion agricultural department; and S. L. Jess, Belleville, Ont., secretary of the Ontario Cheese Producers Association. Dairy Farmers' president is R. H. M. Bailey of Edmonton.

The first meal in the air was eaten in 1785, when a man and woman went aloft in a balloon.

21 TOP NAZIS GET NO BREAKS AT CHRISTMAS

MUNICH, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Nazi defendants in the war crimes trials will be invited to sing carols on Christmas day.

There will be no special Christmas dinner, no gifts and no concessions for the accused Nazis, however.

Capt. Henry F. Gerecke, United States army chaplain, will conduct a special service in a double cell for Lutherans. An organ will be brought in for the singing.

Capt. Sigmund R. O'Connor, a Roman Catholic chaplain, will sing mass for Catholic prisoners.

Report Jap Balloon Found on B.C. Coast

UCLUELET, B.C., Dec. 21.—(CP)—An object, believed to be a Japanese balloon, is sought by a party of provincial police, guides and RCMP personnel tracking yesterday through the heavily-wooded country between Tofino and Port Alberni.

The object, if it is a bomb, which was sighted on a 2,000-foot hill behind Kennedy Lake. The object was sighted during a routine inspection of the RCAF communications line between Tofino and Port Alberni.

The Labrador duck was known to science in 1786, and the first reported member of the tribe was killed by a hunter in 1875.

Today's Sport Parade

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(BUP)—The National Football League and Dan Topping, who broad-jumped to the rival All-American Conference, were involved in the juvenile phase of hide-and-go-seek yesterday with the proceedings a pinch to wind up in front of a judge.

The issue is a non-working franchise in the National League which commissioner Elmer Layden has declared forfeit. Topping thinks it is worth a cool $50,000. The sign-off will come when the National League refuses to recognize the franchise at its January schedule meeting.

TOPPING FOR SOME YEARS has owned the nation's Brooklyn Tiger franchise. It didn't operate last season, being merged with the Boston Yanks, as Topping and two partners bought the New York Yankees baseball team. Major Dan adjusted himself to civies once again, and Topping attempted to get together with Marx's syndicate. New York Glens so he could obtain some choice data in Yankee Stadium.

Marx wouldn't give And then along came the new All-American conference, promising Topping everything including chicken every Sunday, to get a "pin" in New York. So Dan looked long and hard, and then heaped.

But first he transferred the presidency of his Brooklyn Tiger franchise to his attorney, Arthur Friedland. It was a dodge, but to the surprise Topping no longer is involved in the act of the National football franchise. But with Topping in the other league, the National immediately declared his franchise forfeit.

THE QUESTION now concerns the legality of the forfeiture. And there's also a possibility that as Topping gets mad, and manages to retain the franchise, he can make things uncomfortably warm for the National.

"Legally the National League can't give away the franchise which is worth $50,000," said Tom Tillery, Topping's attorney. "They can't declare it forfeit and they have to give the Brooklyn Tiger a schedule at the January meeting."

"If not, why that's the time we'll take it before a court of law."

Meanwhile, the hide-and-go-seek goes on. Gallery behinds that Friedland has a meeting, "sometime this week" with Layden to discuss the case and a probable settlement.

And in Chicago, National League headquarters assert that they have heard a word from Topping's multiplicity.

IF IT GOES TO COURT, the outcome, particularly if Topping's interests win—could be interesting. They also could be very embarrassing for the National League.

Because there's nothing in the National League constitution which sets the size of the stadium to be used for home games. So the aggravated Topping dollar, operating from the background, might put on the Brooklyn Tiger franchise home games at some high school field.

It would be a vengeful and unprofitable bit of business. But a big laugh on the National League to the benefit of the All-American conference. As for the monetary loss, well, that Tiger team has cost Topping an estimated $50,000 so far, and he probably wouldn't mind if a little more National red ink if it paid in All-American blue.

Recall Morris

Lost 2 Legs, 1 Arm

Soldier Given Option Of Living or Dying

TORONTO, Dec. 21.—(CP)—Pte. Russell (Rusty) Dodds doesn't remember much of what happened. He recalls a traumatic second—a terrific crash when he fell unconscious in an Italian ditch a smashed, bloody heap.

THAT WAS A YEAR ago during the fighting at Rimini. A German shell caused the crash which cost him both legs and his right arm. Rusty remembers better the British army doctor bending over as he regained consciousness 12 hours later. He couldn't see the legs and arm, the doctor said, then asked:

"Do you want to live or don't you?"

THE DOCTOR told Dodds, whose 15-year-old mother lives at Tondale, Sask., that he could be saved if he wanted and that special nurses would attend him night and day "if you want to live."

Rusty pondered a bit over that, then replied with the question:

"If I live am I going to be a nuisance all my life?"

"You'll have to decide that, too," said the doctor.

RUSTY, INTERVIEWED at his military hospital east here, said he thought harder then than ever before in his life, finally said:

"I think I'll live."

At the big British hospital near Rimini, the soldier, the other below, the arm was amputated above the elbow.

IT WASN'T EASY for the next few days.

"I thought I was in a boat at sea," he said. "I was fighting, fighting, I don't know what I was fighting but I fought on and on."

He came back to full consciousness on a Sunday morning, two days later wrote a scrawly letter to his mother. He had decided he might as well get started on learning to write with the left hand.

A DODDS HAS SEEN plenty of hospitals since then. In every one of them he learned something, and at Christie Street hospital he is learning to type. He's also studying business arithmetic, the better to find a job when his artificial limbs are fitted and he is discharged.

So far Rusty has received five Christmas presents and five Christmas cards.

He couldn't think of anything else he would like because, as he said, if he really wanted something he would try and "scrunch" it.

IT SO HAPPENS, however, that the nurse nurse Rusty secretly desires a compact radio he can place beside the bed. And what Rusty doesn't know is that he will get a brand new one for Christmas—a 1946 portable model.

A women's lodge in Toronto has sent to him.

Sadder, Wiser

Teddy, South Bend, Ind., cocker spaniel, tried to snare a squirrel perched on a 12-foot high tree limb, and broke both front legs in the resulting fall. However, a veterinarian fixed him up with crutch-casts, above, and Teddy manages to limp around, a sad-but-wiser pooch.

IT WASN'T EASY for the next few days.

"I thought I was in a boat at sea," he said. "I was fighting, fighting, I don't know what I was fighting but I fought on and on."

He came back to full consciousness on a Sunday morning, two days later wrote a scrawly letter to his mother. He had decided he might as well get started on learning to write with the left hand.

A DODDS HAS SEEN plenty of hospitals since then. In every one of them he learned something, and at Christie Street hospital he is learning to type. He's also studying business arithmetic, the better to find a job when his artificial limbs are fitted and he is discharged.

So far Rusty has received five Christmas presents and five Christmas cards.

Bermuda Impasse

On Auto Transport

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Dec. 21.—(CP)—Government of this British colony—which has steadily refused to permit automobiles on the island—has an impasse yesterday on the problem of transportation.

The embassy was determined to have motor car legislation which would include private use, but the council has stood firm with a slim one-way majority against permission to use vehicles in Bermuda for private purposes. The assembly has the upper hand, however, because all motor car acts expire at the end of the year and the assembly has indicated its determination to permit them to do so, with the result there would be no law on motor car use on the island.

THE FEUD BETWEEN the two houses has been brought to the recent point as a result of Bermuda Railway Company losing an ultimatum to the government, seeking substantial subsidies for the railway, on which the colony relies almost completely for public transport.

The Bermuda transport board has recommended to the assembly purchase of the entire system at a cost of approximately $5,000,000. The possibility arose that the railway system should be replaced by a system of taxis and buses. But each time this suggestion comes up, the assembly and council disagree.

Troops' Brawl

Wrecks Trams

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Dec. 21.—(CP)—A United States army and navy "bottle battle" last night which started in the public bar over the relative merits of the army and navy's treatment of native workers, ended up a battle royal between soldiers, sailors, military police and natives. It also resulted in a crash between a runaway electric street car and another car travelling on the same line in the opposite direction. Some passengers on both cars were slightly injured.

DURING THE BATTLE one sailor was cut by a bottle blow over the ear and the beverage room was jarred by a fusillade of stones. One of the sailors, trying to escape, jumped on a passing street car but was followed by two soldiers who remained the fight. The consternation of the passengers who started jumping out of the moving car. One soldier rushed to the front of the car, pushed the motorman aside and opened up to full speed, sending the vehicle crashing into an oncoming car which was unable to reverse in time.

Officials now are investigating the incident.

Delay Decision

On Police Probe

City of Montreal

MONTREAL, Dec. 21.—(CP)—Chief Justice W. B. Lord, of the Superior court, announced yesterday he would delay decision on a petition for an inquiry into operations of the police department, presented last week on behalf of 74 Montreal citizens by Jean J. Pénverne, Montreal lawyer, until after the Christmas holidays. The delay was made on request of Charles Laurendeau, legal expert for the city of Montreal.

Mr. Laurendeau requested the delay so that members of the municipal executive committee might have time to study a report he has submitted as to the legality of the petition. Contents of Mr. Laurendeau's written opinion has not been made public, but it is understood to focus not on the inquiry justified.

McKenney On Bridge

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY

America's Card Authority

Now that the war is over, perhaps hand patterns will return to normal. I really think that the war had a psychological effect on bidding and play, as there have been some terrific swings in tournament. Swing hands have not been common to tournaments either. Here is one that came up in a rubber bridge game at the New York Athletic Club. My friend John Whitney, Richmond of the New Finance Committee of New York, held the South cards.

 ♠ A 10 6 5 ♥ A 10 5 3 ♦ A 10 5 3 ♣ A 10 5 3 	 ♠ K J 10 9 ♥ K J 10 9 ♦ K J 10 9 ♣ K J 10 9

His bid of one spade was perfectly normal, but East undoubtedly thought it was a psychic bid, hence his double of three no trump. West correctly opened the heart, as the double of three no trump asks partner to lead the first suit bid by dummy. Richmond played low from dummy and East won with the king. East should have cashed his king of trumps, but he decided that South would have to lead spades to him, so he led back the jack of diamonds.

You can see what happened. Richmond made four club tricks, three diamonds and five hearts, giving him 18½ extra overcalls.

Russia Claims UNO "Victory" On Trustships

By R. H. SHACKFORD

Resolute to the Russian Bulletin LONDON, Dec. 21.—(CP)—The Soviet Union claimed a total victory today over the mandatory-colonial powers in the United Nations Preparatory Commission on all trust-ship issues.

But it was not necessarily final because a full dress showdown was promised by both sides for the general assembly.

The victory was sufficient, however, to force South Africa to admit publicly it does not intend to convert the mandate of Southwest Africa to UNO trusteeship.

The South African delegates, obtained from the final vote after stating his mandate legislation had asked that Southwest Africa be admitted to the South African Union.

The trusteeship committee adopted without dissent, but with three abstentions and numerous reservations by the mandatory powers, a so-called compromise resolution.

IT SCRAPES THE OLD AMERICAN British plan to set up a temporary trusteeship committee which Britain opposed and asks the general assembly to "call on" the mandatory powers to turn mandates into trusteeships as the permanent trust council can be set up "preferably" before the end of the second part of the assembly now planned for early summer.

The mandatory powers made it plain they were not prepared to plan with reservations only because of unwillingness to delay adjournment of the preparatory commission, which was hoped for tomorrow.

Dissolve Marriage
Two Coast Women
To North Resident
VANCOUVER, Dec. 21.—(CP)—Two wives of William Terrie, alias Leslie Terry, appeared in Supreme Court here yesterday and Mr. Justice A. M. Macdonell granted each of them a dissolution of marriage.

Florence Terry of Vancouver was granted a divorce of her marriage at Brandon, Man., in 1929, on the ground that 10 years after the marriage, Leslie Terry married Marie Copewick of Vancouver.

Later Marie Copewick was granted an annulment of her marriage to William Terrie at New York City in 1939 on the ground that at the time he was already married.

It was contended by the two women that the same man used two names, William Terrie and William Terry, and that he now lives at Whitehorse, Y.T.

Additional Sport
Believes Canada
Able to Supply
Enough Players
MONTREAL, Dec. 21.—(CP)—In the anticipated ice hockey revival in Great Britain next winter, Canada should be in a position to supply sufficient players to give the venture a good start, Major J. H. Dutton, president of the National Hockey League said here Thursday.

Commenting on the recent visit to Canada of J. S. Gwynne, an official of the British Hockey Association, to discuss with the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association possibilities of recruiting players in the Dominion, Dutton said he came to the right place "as Canada is the only breeding ground for hockey in the world."

GENTLE, WHO FLEW back to England Wednesday, conferred with Dutton and Tommy Gorman, general manager of the Canadian Arena Company, while he was in Montreal.

The NHL president thought that Canada should be able to supply the desired 150 players which Gwynne announced he needs to start operations next winter. Dutton said Canada could take care of its own leagues and still supply players to England.

West of Montreal, Northern Ontario, and carrying on out west—where you have "risk on every corner—all that is terrible hockey breeding ground."

HE THOUGHT that of every player that made the "big time," there were four potential major league prospects overlooked.

He said the British promoter intended to gather his material from among Canadian amateur players. Dutton, moreover, did not foresee the possibility of professional hockey getting underway in England for a few years.

"They have to get their organization going. Then, too, you have to take into account that some of the hockey arena suffered war damage. They have to be repaired."

Canada Prosperity Is Based on Trade

OTTAWA, Dec. 21.—(CP)—Canada's prosperity rests not on imperial preferences but on multi-lateral trade, J. M. Macdonell (PC-Montreal) chief spokesman for the Progressive Conservative party, said yesterday in an interview.

He said he disagreed with Vincent Bennett who recently defended the principle of imperial trade preferences. Vincent Bennett served as Canadian prime minister while head of the Conservative party.

"IMPERIAL PREFERENCES, involving future trade on a regional basis—a sterling bloc on one hand and an American dollar bloc on the other—be little more than a distraction for Canada," said Mr. Macdonell.

"Geography places Canada much more in the American dollar region than in the sterling bloc, but Canada's future is bleak indeed, as far as it is unless post-war trade is developed on a multi-lateral basis."

First use of the system since its installation at the beginning of the war, when the liner was being completed in a tide shipyard. Several prevented its operation during the war.

The suspension would stand until the spring meeting of the association, when his case would be reviewed.

IS IT OFFICIAL?

Three-Year-Old Thrown in Creek

ALTON, Ont., Dec. 21.—(CP)—A three-year-old boy was thrown into a creek Wednesday afternoon after falling from a bridge over a creek.

The child, who was playing with a group of children on the bridge, fell from the edge and landed in the water.

The child's mother said that on reaching the river "because I couldn't see my mummy" and the youth picked her up and "started to take off my snowsuit."

"Then he took me over the water and dropped me in," she said.

The child's mother said that on missing her daughter at home she began an after-dark search that ended in a swampy area near the river where she found her daughter streaming "and crawling on her hands and knees across the ice."

Sentence of Two Years' Confinement
BOLOGNA, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Edda Mussolini Ciano, daughter of Benito Mussolini and widow of Count Galeazzo Ciano, fascist foreign minister, has been sentenced by an Italian provincial commission to two years' confinement for her efforts in behalf of fascism, a dispatch from Messina to the newspaper Il Tempo said yesterday.

Edda did not attend her trial, the dispatch said, refusing to leave the island of Lipari, north of Sicily, where she has been interned since the end of the war.

Il Tempo said she was specifically charged with conducting her efforts in a fascist manner, aiding the foreign policy which led to the alliance with Germany and to war, maintaining friendly relations with German political leaders, and selling abroad her late husband.

Croydon Finds Another "Little Brother of Satan" Replaces Unexploded Bomb

By NORMAN CHUBBINS

CROYDON, Surrey, Dec. 21.—(CP)—A 500-lb. bomb was removed from Croydon Sunday but residents of this bomb-battered English town breathed their sighs of relief too soon. That's because Satan—a 4,000-pound unexploded bomb dropped by the German Luftwaffe early in 1941—had a younger brother.

ONE MILE from the South-Croton tunnel where Satan was unearthed, Royal Engineers' sappers have discovered a 2,000-pounder which has lain dormant since 1941. Sappers from No. 2 bomb disposal squad—the interdict outfit that drew Satan's teeth—have sunk a 30-foot shaft and hope to remove the jewel before the new year.

IT NOW IS DISCLOSED that Greater London still has 24 unexploded or suspected bombs and work on four is proceeding with evacuation of the districts where they fell in prospect.

Sappers are boring close to a 200-pound bomb at Aldershot, while others are about 12 feet from a 200-pounder at Gilling, Essex. A third group is four feet from a 100-pounder near a far-distilling factory at Silchester.

OPERATIONS soon will begin on a 200-lb. mortar bomb beneath the lake in St. James Park not far from Buckingham Palace while other bomb sites are in the crowded London suburb of Berkham, at the country village of Polters Bar, Hertfordshire, and in the grounds of the South-west cathedral near London Bridge.

Secret stream apparatus is being used to sterilize a 500-pound bomb near the railway line at Woolwich. AFTER A THREE-WEEK search an unexploded 2,000-pound bomb was located with an electrical device in the market place at Hull, Yorkshire, and a squad of Royal Engineers is sinking a shaft to reach it. The bomb, dropped during a raid in July, 1942, grazed the center of a meat market and embedded itself in soft soil below the surface.

Experts say the longer an explosive lies in the ground, the more dangerous it becomes. "Even if left 15 years it would still be getting more and more dangerous," a government spokesman said. "Smaller bombs are more dangerous because the Germans fitted them with de-lagration fuses."

New "Death March" Swindled Women Charged to Homma Of Nearly $2,000

MANILA, Dec. 21.—(AP)—A new "death march" in the Philippines mountains of Northern Luzon, in which exhausted and emaciated American prisoners were charged to Homma, former Japanese commander in the Philippines.

More than 100 sick prisoners were made to act as "pack animals" for hauling Japanese arms and supplies into the rugged country in light guerrillas, said the formal charges against Homma, who will go on trial here Jan. 1.

The prosecution said it would introduce evidence to show that Homma actually witnessed the first "death march" from Bataan, while tending in an automobile. Homma is accused of responsibility for atrocities involving the death of 47,000 American and Filipino war prisoners.

A 12-page deposition from Gen. James M. Wainwright, U.S. commander of Bataan and later a prisoner of the Japanese, will show that Homma was "very uncooperative" in his dealings with the American officer, the prosecution added.

Prosecutors said Homma, with Gen. Wainwright, after returning to court, granted American forces, in an effort to effect the surrender of other Allied units in the Philippines.

Yesterday, Toots Wright, 26, said she gave money in 1943 and 1944 in Luzon and Myrtle Wainwright, 37, testified she had given Larocque more than $200 this year. Both said they had become emotional in testimony.

The hearing was adjourned for Christmas.
